Special presentation (Section 3) Regional and National Organization of China's Flooring Industry

As China's flooring industry developed rapidly, several local flooring associations were set up in succession. These local industrial associations have stronger awareness of service than the central association, and they play a dominant role in propelling the development of the Chinese flooring industry. 16 local industrial associations jointly set up a national union of local flooring associations, and they take part in organizing the conference on their own initiatives. At the conference, they will tell the public the product characters in different areas, how they help boost the local flooring industries with regional characteristic, and their effect on the Chinese flooring industry, and even the global flooring markets.

Note: 280 in Guangdong is only the number of enterprise in Guangzhou.

Create the best flooring production base in Shanghai

Shanghai Building Materials Industry Association (SBMIA) – Flooring Committee, founded in April 2002, is made up of major flooring manufacturers and dealers in and nearby Shanghai, and has 133 member units at present. In 2005, the flooring manufacturers in Shanghai produced floor of 53,000,000 m², more than 6 billion yuan. The member enterprises contributed over 90% of the total output.

Job of SBMIA-Flooring Committee:

1. Serving the enterprises, and promoting cooperation between flooring enterprises and other related companies and organizations.
2. Regulating the flooring industry, formulating technical and market criterion, and supporting consumption and production.
3. Convening professional conferences, making directories, and assisting enterprises with developing domestic and international markets.
